INT. GREY SLOAN MEMORIAL HOSPITAL EMERGENCY ROOM-EVENING

The emergency room is jammed pack. Paramedics rush Mary, who is on a gurney, into a room. Her head is bloody and she is clinging to life. Dr. McDreamy and Dr. McSteamy follow the medic into the room.

MEDIC

Her name is Mary Lexington. She was in a motorcycle accident. She's suffering from what seems to be a serious head injury.

DR. MCDREAMY

Thank you. I have it from her.

The medic rushes away. DR. McDreamy pulls out his flashlight and lifts the lid to Mary's eyes, shining the light in her both of her eyes.

DR. MCDREAMY

Her pupils are dilated.

He looks at Dr. McSteamy.

DR. MCDREAMY

I know just the trick.

He lifts the lid to her left eye and stares dreamily into her eye. (Romantic music starts to play)

DR. MCSTEAMY
What the hell are you doing?

DR. MCDREAMY
I'm summoning her. All the girls like it.

DR. MCSTEAMY
No the hell they don't. She's not even responding.

DR. MCDREAMY
This is an off scenario. I've never had this problem before.

DR. MCSTEAMY
Watch out.

He bends over Mary, laying his hands on the bed, on both sides of her. He comes in close. His lips tremble sexily. His skin starts to drip with sweat. His hair is suddenly wet.

DR. MCDREAMY
Ewww... Who gets wet up top? What the hell is wrong with you?

DR. MCSTEAMY
I...I don't know...it usually works.

DR. MCDREAMY
Stop. Just stop. Move back.

Nurses rush in and hook Mary up to an IV.

Dr. McDreamy leans in with his stethoscope. He takes a listen.

DR. MCDREAMY
Her heart rate is low! Pass me the AED. STAT!

The nurses pass the AED. He shocks Mary a few times.

DR. MCSTEAMY
Come on! Come on...baby...

DR. MCDREAMY
Baby?

DR. MCSTEAMY
I'm just trying to help her.

Dr. McDreamy stares at him. Suddenly, Mary's parents rush in.

MARY'S MOM
 (screams)
 Mary! Don't die! Oh my God, please!
 Not my baby!!!

Mary's mom lays across Mary and the equipment.

MARY'S DAD
 (dropping to his knees)
 (sobbing)
 Not my baby! Lord, please, take me!
 Taaake meeee!

Dr. McSteamy walks to the other side of the bed. He grabs Mary's hand and leans over.

DR. MCSTEAMY
 Baby...
 (rubbing the side of her face with the back of his hand)
 we need you here...

MARY'S DAD
 (confused)
 Who the hell are you?

MARY'S MOM
 No, no...that's my baby...

Dr. McSteamy steps back again.

DR. MCDREAMY
 Stop being weird!

DR. MCSTEAMY
 You were weird first!

Dr. Warren peeks in the room.

DR. WARREN
 Is everything alright? I figured I'd check in before I head home.

Dr. McDreamy checks her heart rate again.

DR. MCDREAMY
 Oh no! Her heart rate has gotten lower!

Dr. Warren races from the room. Down the hall, through the waiting area to the lobby. He approaches a vending machine. He sees the Coca-Cola. He reaches in his white coat for some spare change. He finds just enough. He pops the coins into the slot. "Empty" flashes across the screen. His change drops to the bottom. He grabs it. Glances around. He sees a kid twisting the cap to open a brand new bottle of coke.

DR. WARREN

Hey, kid!

The kid looks up at him.

DR. WARREN

I need that coke.

KID

But it's mine.

DR. WARREN

Here, I'll pay you for it.

KID

But I don't want-

Dr. Warren tosses the change in the kid's lap, snatches the bottle and races back through the lobby, then waiting area, back to Mary's room.

Within minutes, there's coca cola in Mary's IV bag. She's bright eyed and bushy tailed. Her parents are doting on her.

DR. MCDREAMY

You did it!

DR. MCSTEAMY

Yeah, you did!

DR. WARREN

Nah...Coca-Cola did it!

They all laugh and are now drinking cola around Mary's bed.

KID

Mister? Mister?

The kid is tugging on Dr. Warren's whitecoat. Dr. Warren looks down.

KID

Is there anymore Coca-Cola for me?

DR. WARREN

There's ALWAYS Coca-Cola.

He hands the kid his bottle. The song "There's always Coca-Cola" plays.
